Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services Boost Payments

Reversing an earlier decision, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has announced it will increase payments to acute care hospitals by 2.1% for fiscal 2010.

The agency also issued final rules that would boost payments to long-term care hospitals and home health agencies, but cut payments to skilled nursing facilities.

Never Too Young...

When he began suffering memory lapses from dementia, Jorge Gomez decided that if he were ever unable to eat or breathe on his own, he'd want no artificial means of nutrition or respiration. His second wife, on the other hand, wanted to do everything medically possible to prolong his life.

Obama on Health Care for Seniors

President Obama sought to reassure older Americans on Tuesday that health reform would not disrupt their Medicare coverage or force them to change doctors.

The president said he wants to change the health care system so that every American can enjoy the health and financial security Medicare currently provides to people ages 65 and older.
